Wholesome Cutlets

Ingredients

big potatoes - 6
channa dhal - 1 small cup
5 bunches palak leaves
3 carrots
3 medium sized onions
garam masala, rusk powder,
fine semolina (little)
chilli powder
2 limes
salt
green chillies (optional)

For the Chutney:

2 tbsp dry grapes
1 tsp tamarind powder or paste
garam masala
salt
jeera powder
jaggery
green chilli - optional.

Method

Soak channa dhal for six hours before preparing cutlet.

Pressure cook potatoes with little water, at the same time pressure cook washed palak leaves without water. Cook till softly done, drain water from both potatoes and palak (palak will collect lot of water while steam cooking), DO NOT THROW THE WATER AWAY. Drain palak and potatoes very well, peel and mash potatoes in to a bowl.

Grind palak with channa dhal to a smooth paste without adding water, grate carrots, cut onions finely and fry in little oil, add all these to mashed potatoes, add garam masala, salt, chilli powder to taste. Add juice of 2 limes, (green chilli) mix very well. If mixture turns a little watery add fine semolina to turn the mixture to a thick paste. Shape to cutlets, roll in rusk powder and shallow fry on dosa griddle with oil till done.

Note:

The cutlets retain good shape and taste even without oil. So the oil used while cooking may be varied depending on the age of the person who eats. Oil need not be used at all for ailing people.

Fish Cutlets

Ingredients

1 green pepper	6 slices of bread
3 small onions	2 green chilies
1 tomato	1 egg
bunch of fresh coriander	1 tsp jeera
2 sardine tins	1/2 tsp yellow powder
5 flakes garlic	1 boiled potato
1" piece ginger

Method

Blend the above in a hand mixer that blends ingredients into a paste. (I have my moms old mixer.

It's very old fashioned. You put all the ingredients. in gradually and grind and it all comes out on the other end into a paste).

If you don't have this type of blender, then make sure you slice the onions, pepper, fresh coriander, tomato, potato, bread, into tiny small bits and pieces... if possible blend the onions, pepper, ginger, garlic, coriander and the tomatoes in a normal blender.

After you do that, then you add the mashed potato, sardines 1 egg and the slices of bread.

By the way, extra bread can be added if you find the mixture still sticky.

After you prepare this mixture, add the masalas, mix and only if you find the mixture still kind of watery, then only you add more slice bread.

Add a pinch of salt or to taste.

Keep the mixture in the fridge. Use small amounts if and when needed. Mixture can be kept for days. Doesn't get bad.

Take small amounts, the size of half an egg in your hands and make square or rectangular shapes or round what ever you want.

Dip each shape in egg, then in bread crumb. Keep for a while in the fridge for about 10 minutes before frying in sufficient amount of oil.

Bread Rolls

Ingredients

6 slices bread
5 medium sized potatoes
1 small onion
1 small bunch coriander leaves
6 pods garlic
4 green chillies
1/2 tsp garam masala (optional)
1 tsp chilli powder (less or more depending on taste)
salt to taste
oil for deep frying

Method

Hold the bread slices together and cut the rough edges. Boil potatoes ( the best is to pressure cook them since this will be the fastest)

Meanwhile, chop onions, green chillies, coriander, garlic and green chillies finely. Keep aside. Once potatoes are cooled, peel and mash. Add all ingredients except the bread and oil. Mix well.

Take a little water in a flat plate and dip the bread slices one by one in it. Squeeze excess water from the bread slices and keep them aside on a tissue. Make sure that the slice does not get too soft or watery or too hard.

Heat oil in a deep frying pan / kadai. Take a slice of the wet bread on a dry plate. Spread some potato mixture on it. Roll the bread slice towards you till the edges meet. Seal the edges by pressing the bread slice.

Pat the roll to even out edges. This may seem a little difficult at first, but you will get used to it. Deep fry in hot oil. Repeat for remaining slices.

Serve hot with Tomato ketchup and mint chutney.
